Fr. Gerard's Corner

Apocalyptic literature can be difficult to understand, especially out of context. It flowered in the centuries before Jesus was born, but continued for centuries afterwards, when the church was persecuted by the Roman government. Apocalyptic writings foresaw a dramatic and violent end of the world, imagining current hardships magnified a hundredfold. The events that they imagined—natural disasters, wars, persecution—were enough to drive most people to fear or despair. But there was always consolation for those who were worthy, because God is more powerful than any earthly disaster. Luke reassures his audience with Jesus' words of comfort. "Do not be terrified . . . not a hair on your head will be destroyed" (Luke 21:9, 18). There is a larger plan and the faithful will be delivered.

It's not difficult to imagine that the world could be ending soon, what with terrorism, mass shootings, and global warming. But the lessons from today's readings apply to our era as well. Yes, terrible things are happening and will continue to happen. But this still "will not immediately be the end" (Luke 21:9). "The sun of justice with its healing rays" will arise (Malachi 3:20).

So what should we do? Saint Paul provides a model. We often think of Paul as a preacher, and this is certainly true, but he also taught by example. He worked "in toil and drudgery, night and day," to set an example to imitate (2 Thessalonians 3:8). Some Christians did not follow his lead, so he had to tell them that if they did not work, they should not expect to eat! The lesson: Working to build the kingdom of God was as necessary as food.

Question of the Week:

Do I continue to meet my responsibilities even during difficult times? How can I bring myself to hope for healing justice in the midst of terrible events?

REFUTE RELATIVISTIC THINKING

FREE TALK! GUEST SPEAKER KARLO BROUSSARD

Karlo exposes the absurdities of the modern belief that truth is relative to what an individual or culture believes. He provides arguments to show that truth exists independently of what an individual or group of individuals might think. As a staff apologist and speaker for Catholic Answers, Karlo travels the country giving talks on apologetics, the Bible, theology, and philosophy. Karlo is one of the most dynamic and gifted Catholic speakers on the circuit today, communicating with precision of thought, a genuine love for God, and an enthusiasm that inspires.

The St. James-St. Leo Pastoral Council is an advisory group to our pastor and is made up of 18 parishioners from our St. James-St. Leo Community. We are advisory only – we don't set any policy or direction. We currently have 5 active committees. Hospitality, Liturgy, Youth Ministry, Evangelization and St. James Academy, and we expect adding other committees in the future. Every year one third of the council will be retired and new members from the parish will be taking our places.

To better represent the entire parish, the pastoral council is looking for your input. The Council is conducting a parish wide survey that will be accessible on the parish website and will be available for 2 weeks. This survey will cover the 5 areas of parish life that our committees are currently addressing. The survey results will be published.

Fr. Gerard Lecomte

The Pastoral Council wants to be very visible and accessible to all parishioners. Our photos will be in the back of the church and on the website as well. We will all be wearing white Pastoral Council name badges. You are welcome to approach anyone of the members with any issue. The council e-mail address is: PastoralCouncil@stjames-stleo.com and our meetings, on the third Monday of the month, are open for all parishioners to attend. There will opportunity for parishioners to provide input to the council at our meetings – you just have to set it up in advance with the parish office.

The Pastoral Council is looking forward to receiving your input on any St. James-St. Leo pastoral issue.

El rincón del P. Gerardo

La literatura apocalíptica puede ser difícil de entender, sobre todo cuando se saca fuera del contexto. Surgió en los siglos anteriores al nacimiento de Jesús, pero continuó durante siglos después cuando la Iglesia fue perseguida por el gobierno romano. Los escritos apocalípticos vaticinaron un fin del mundo dramático y violento con un aumento desmesurado de las adversidades ya existentes. Los acontecimientos que ellos imaginaron, tales como desastres naturales, guerra y persecución, eran suficientes para provocar el miedo y la desesperación en la mayoría de la gente. Pero siempre había consuelo para aquellos que confiaban en Dios, pues Dios es más poderoso que ningún desastre terrenal. Lucas le da tranquilidad a su audiencia con las palabras consoladoras de Jesús: "Que no los domine el pánico . . . ni un cabello de su cabeza perecerá" (Lucas 21, 9. 18). Hay un plan más grande y los fieles se salvarán.

No es difícil imaginar que el mundo terminará pronto al ver el terrorismo, las masacres humanas y el calentamiento global. Pero las lecciones que sacamos de las lecturas de hoy también son aplicables a nuestra era. Ciertamente es que están sucediendo cosas terribles y van a seguir ocurriendo, "pero todavía no es el fin" (Lucas 21, 9). "Brillará el sol de justicia, que les traerá la salvación en sus rayos" (Malaquías 3, 20).

Así pues, ¿qué debemos hacer? San Pablo nos da el modelo. Podemos considerar a Pablo un predicador, pues ciertamente lo es; pero también enseñó con su ejemplo. "De día y de noche trabajé hasta agotarme", así nos dio un ejemplo a imitar (2 Tesalonicenses 3, 8). Algunos cristianos no siguieron el ejemplo de Pablo y por eso tuvo que decirles que si no trabajaban, ¡no deberían esperar comer! La lección es ésta: Trabajar para construir el Reino de Dios es tan necesario como el alimento.

St. James—St. Leo Catholic Community is under the pastoral care of the Eudist Fathers, or Congregation of Jesus and Mary. We owe our name to Saint John Eudes who founded the Congregation in France in 1643. Evangelization, mainly with the poor and the youth, is our primary purpose, as well as formation to ministry in the training of diocesan priests and lay ministers. Our motto is "To Serve Christ and His Church." For more information visit: <http://www.eudistsusa.org>
