Fr. Gerard's Corner

Throughout his Gospel, Matthew reminds his audience that Jesus is the one who fulfills all the prophecies from the Old Testament regarding the one who was to come. Already he has laid out Jesus' genealogy to show that he is of the house of David. Also, he was born of a virgin, born in the town of Bethlehem, later to come out of Egypt and grow up in Nazareth. Now he reminds them that after his baptism he went to Galilee, to the region of Zebulun and Naphtali, just as Isaiah had prophesied. It is no coincidence that the first reading nearly every Sunday since the first of December has been from the prophet Isaiah. Unlike Luke, Matthew does not precede the story of the calling of the first apostles, fishermen all, by relating the story of a miraculous catch of fish. Perhaps this is because he trusts that Simon, Andrew, James, and John, like his Jewish audience, would already recognize in Jesus the fulfillment of the ancient prophecies. No wonder they are able to abandon their steady jobs "at once" for a completely new calling.

Only after they are called does Jesus embark on his mission, teaching, preaching, and healing. But Isaiah clued them in to what Jesus would do, this Light in a land overshadowed by death, glorifying the road between Jewish and Gentile lands, proclaiming Good News of abundant joy, and destroying the burdens of disease and illness.

Just after we completed the week of prayer for Christian unity, we hear this reading from Paul decrying the divisions within the church in Corinth. As disciples ourselves, we have a responsibility to work for unity, for in Christ there can be no division. Christ transcends all human leaders who could claim adherents while excluding others.

What is National Catholic Schools Week?

Since 1974, National Catholic Schools Week is the annual celebration of Catholic education in the United States. It starts the last Sunday in January and runs all week, which in 2019 is January 27 - February 2. The theme for National Catholic Schools Week 2019 is "Catholic Schools: Learn. Serve. Lead. Succeed." Schools typically observe the annual celebration week with Masses, open houses and other activities for students, families, parishioners and community members. Through these events, schools focus on the value Catholic education provides to young people and its contributions to our church, our communities and our nation.

El rincón del P. Gerardo

A lo largo de todo su Evangelio Mateo le recuerda a su audiencia que Jesús es quien ha cumplido todas las profecías del Antiguo Testamento sobre el que habría de venir. Ya él ha expuesto la genealogía de Jesús a fin de mostrar que es del linaje de David. Además nació de una virgen en la ciudad de Belén y después salió de Egipto para crecer en Nazaret. Ahora Mateo le recuerda a su audiencia que Jesús fue a Galilea, a la región de Zabulón y Neftalí, después de haber sido bautizado, tal como lo había profetizado Isaías. No es coincidencia que la primera lectura en casi todos los domingos desde los primeros de diciembre ha sido tomada del libro del profeta Isaías. A diferencia de Lucas, Mateo no precede la historia del llamado de los apóstoles (todos ellos pescadores) al relato de la pesca milagrosa. Tal vez sea porque confía en que Simón, Andrés, Santiago y Juan (al igual que su audiencia judía) ya reconocían en Jesús el cumplimiento de las antiguas profecías. Con razón pudieron dejar sus trabajos regulares “inmediatamente” para dedicarse a una misión completamente nueva. Sólo después que ellos fueron llamados es que Jesús emprende su misión de enseñar, predicar y curar. Pero Isaías les da un indicio de lo que haría Jesús, pues esa Luz alumbra en una tierra de sombras de muerte y glorifica el camino entre la tierra de los judíos y la de los paganos, proclama la buena nueva de la alegría abundante, y destruye el yugo de padecimientos y enfermedades. Justo después de terminarse la semana de oración por la unidad de los cristianos escuchamos esta lectura de Pablo denunciando las divisiones en la Iglesia de Corintio. Como discípulos que somos también nosotros tenemos la responsabilidad de trabajar en favor de la unidad, pues en Cristo no pueden haber divisiones. Cristo trasciende a todos los líderes humanos que se adjudican a sí mismos ser adeptos mientras que a la vez excluyen a otras personas.

St. James—St. Leo Catholic Community is under the pastoral care of the Eudist Fathers, or Congregation of Jesus and Mary. We owe our name to Saint John Eudes who founded the Congregation in France in 1643. Evangelization, mainly with the poor and the youth, is our primary purpose, as well as formation to ministry in the training of diocesan priests and lay ministers. Our motto is “To Serve Christ and His Church.” For more information visit: <http://www.eudistsusa.org>
